Total score: WENTWORTH 328, Opponents 117.
These scores are remarkable in themselves; but when we consider that out of the twelve games, which our teams have played on their own grounds, not once have we drawn the small end of the score, we indeed take off our hats to this year's aggregations.

The two games which our second and third teams lost were themselves. In the first game of the season, with Lawrence High School the caliber of our team is always tested. The Kansans usually bring out a bunch that has scrimmaged with Haskell and K. U., and they are the hardest proposition that we could have at the first of the year. This year all that kept them from beating us was the old Wentworth fighting spirit. Our team had not been together long enough to know each other, and their assortment of plays was very limited. Lawrence showed all sorts of class, and they had a half-played before the boys had practiced a week. Nearly all of the men that played for the seconds on the first game either quit altogether, or were shoved back to the thirds. And besides, three fourths of them had never played before. The results of their training can no better be shown, than in the return games which they played with their conquerors. The second team simply ran rings around Odessa, and the third team had little trouble in beating the Higginsville High.

For the first team little need be said. The results speak for back who was a wonder. Indeed our team had its hands full all the time to keep their goal line uncrossed, and everyone was relieved when the game was over.

Then came the Mowhawk game, a very tame affair, which hardly amounted to a practice game with the second team. But the next Saturday Ottawa came, and the best home game during the entire season was staged. Ottawa in the first quarter ter marched for two touchdowns, and there seemed to be no chance for the home team. Then in the second quarter the boys found themselves, and they were not to be denied. They seemed to gain confidence in themselves, but not too much. From then on they were never in danger of losing a game.

To Captain Sermon must be given credit for the spirit which the team developed. He gave them good plays to be sure; but wherein he got the results was the morale which he instilled in to the team. They seemed to have the necessary coolness, fighting spirit and never-give-up confidence. The line was never outplayed during the entire season, and the backfield had the pep to show up anything they ran up against. May we have many such teams.—W. M. A. Trumpeter.

The January American Magazine.

Two very remarkable contributions about the war appear in the January American Magazine. One, by Ray Stannard Baker, is entitled "The Last Phase of the Great War." It is a fiction story of the German Invasion of America in 1915-1916 and is a sort of imaginary history of the war supposed to be written one hundred years hence. The United States wins without any fighting at all and the story of its victory is ingenious and full of sense, humor and surprise. The other contribution of the war is entitled "Hats Off to France!" It is by Will Irwin, special correspondent of The American Magazine and it reports the courage and coolness with which the French are taking part in this article the impression that France is determined and sportsmanlike to the last degree.

In the same issue Ida M. Tarbell continues her new series of articles entitled "The Golden Rule in Business." In her present article she writes under the title, "The Gospel of Safety," and gives a complete account of the tremendous development of the safety movement in American industries. Cleveland Moffett writes a wonderful account of the new invention by which moving pictures are now taken under the sea. This invention opens the way of the recovery of hun- of lost treasures. Its benefit to oceanographers and science is of course obvious. Stewart Edward White, writing under the title, "A Lion Adventure," gives an account of his personal experiences with wild animals in Africa. A husband, who has been married twenty-five years, gives a highly entertaining and suggestive account of his experience with the problems of matrimony.

Fiction is contributed by David Grayson, author of "Adventures in Contentment," in the way of a new novel entitled "Hempfield," and there are other stories by John A. Moroso, Mollie Best and Maravene Thompson. James Montgomery Flagg, the well known humorist and artist, presents "Four Easy New Year's Resolutions," and the "Interesting People" department completes a lively and beautiful issue.

Make Your Home Brighter.

There is no question in your mind, but that Electricity is the only satisfactory method of lighting. Nothing but its expense has kept you from enjoying its many advantages.

Let me come and lay out a practical plan for lighting your home, and explain the "Mazda Lamp," that has made electric lights so cheap that it is in reach of all.

J. W. WARDER,
The Electric Man.

Burn your porch light a little while tonight. You will approach your home tonight with gladness in the brilliant rays of a 10 Watt Mazda Lamp burning on the porch. Call J. W. WARDER to install the 10 Wall Lamp.

DESCRIBES GERMAN REVELS AMONG STARVING BELGIANS

Theodore Waters, "Christian Herald" Commissioner, Says He Saw Kaiser's Officers Making Merry in Hotels—No Effort to Feed Hungry.

ONCE RICH, WOMEN ARE BEGGING BREAD TO LIVE

From the New York Sun.

Theodore Waters, secretary of the Christian Herald, who went to Belgium to superintend the distribution of the cargo of the steamship Jan Block, returned yesterday by the Transylvania. At the offices of the Commission for Relief in Belgium, 71 Broadway, he gave out a statement in which he said that Belgium was in reality one long line of starving men, women and children clamoring for a daily single ration of soup and bread.

During the time he was in Belgium Mr. Waters was unable to find any proof of German atrocities. On the other hand, he said, the needs were beyond the power of man to describe. He painted a contrast of brilliantly lighted hotels and restaurants overflowing with gorgeously uniform German soldier revellers outside of these hotels virtually beleaguered by women who were waiting in the cold and snow for the food that would keep themselves and their children alive another day.

He mentioned in particular the Weber Hotel at Brussels, patronized by German officers, and around the corner a theatre besieged by starving, freezing women. He did not tell of Germans taking food from the Belgians, but he said most emphatically that the Germans were not feeding the Belgians.

"It is a tale of human woe, a tragic misery, the like the world has never seen," Mr. Waters went on. "I cannot say that the greatest need in all the world is now in Belgium, but I do say that it cannot be surpassed by any of the horrors in the swamps of East Prussia and Galicia.

"In Antwerp I saw over a thousand poorly clad women, one in bed room slippers, standing, shivering in the snow, waiting for food to be doled out, and this under the shadow of a big hotel where well fed, well clad soldiers drank and made merry.

Once Rich; Beg at Malines.

"In Malines under the shadow of the Cathedral, its walls caved in, its old stained glass windows now but ragged remnants of a beauty that can never be replaced, I saw men, women and children gazing disconsolately at the ruins of the houses that once were theirs—poor people who begged something to eat of us as we passed.

"In Brussels we saw women holding babies snuggled to their necks, standing on the cold street corners begging a centime for food. We visited the distributing stations and saw the food sent over by kind hearted Americans being handed out in all too meagre rations. They came in droves, these people, from all directions, and the clatter of their sabots on the pavement was a sad accompaniment to their sadder thoughts, for none spoke, except to murmur a thankful 'Merci, Monsieur!' as each portion was handed out.

"In Holland I found thousands of refugees from Belgium huddled in retaining camps and on barges, some refined, some coarse and brutalized, all sleeping together without partitions to insure the least privacy.

"Now it must be understood that there is no blame coming to Holland for this state of affairs, for by reasons of bad business conditions she is having trouble enough looking after her own population, and in addition she has had nearly a half million refugees thrust suddenly upon her."

Cardinal Farley sent to the Belgian Relief Fund yesterday $7,000, contributions in the Catholic churches for war relief work, making the day's donations to the fund $12,570.53. The fund's total is $679,414.23.

Jacob H. Schiff, treasurer of the New York State Board of the American Red Cross, received $903.69, bringing the total up to $404,667.79. August Belmont, treasurer of the Committee of Mercy, acknowledged the receipt of $645.88, and the total of this fund is now $65,253.37. Mrs. Whitney Warren, 16 East Forty-seventh street received $211 for the French Relief Fund, which amounts to $42,884.71.

J. P. Morgan & Co., received $1,301 for the American Ambulance Hospital Fund, of which $1,100 was contributed by Geo. F. Baker, Jr., for an ambulance. The funds total is $216,349.56. Henry Clews, treasurer of the Dollar Christmas Fund for Homeless Belgians, announced total contributions of $36,189.

Newspapers Send Flour.

Among the shipments of food received yesterday by the Belgian Relief Committee, 10 Bridge street, were seven carloads of flour from the Indianapolis Star, four carloads of flour from the Chicago Evening Post, a carload from the Richmond, Ind., Evening Telegram and five carloads from the Louisville, Ky., Herald. All these contributions were the result of campaigns conducted by the newspapers.
